Privacy Collection Notice

Royal Commission Recommendation 25: Targeted consultations for draft Terms of Reference for an independent inquiry into military sexual violence.

The Australian Human Rights Commission (AHRC) collects and handles personal information in accordance with the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) and our Privacy Policy.

Should you provide a written submission, you consent to us collecting and using your personal information, including any sensitive information, for the purposes of this project, other AHRC projects relevant to the Royal Commission into Defence and Veterans Suicide, and relevant work being undertaken by the Sex Discrimination Commissioner.

The information you provide to us will be used to inform this work, including the preparation of reports or other publications that may be provided to the Department of Prime Minister & Cabinet, other government agencies or may be published more broadly. We may use the information you provide to contact you in relation to this project. We request that you please do not share the personal information of third parties with us.

Reports and publications may include the name of your organisation, quotes or case studies, along with some information about demographics, but will not include information that will directly identify you. Demographic data will be de-identified. De-identified data may be provided to the Department of Prime Minister & Cabinet or other government agencies. If you disclose information that causes us to be concerned for your safety or the safety of others, it may be necessary for us to disclose this information to ensure a person's safety.

We will not otherwise disclose your information unless you give us your consent to do so or if we are required or authorised to do so by law. It is important to be aware that the AHRC is subject to the Freedom of Information Act 1982 (Cth) and documents provided to, or created by, the AHRC may have to be disclosed by the AHRC in response to a freedom of information request. If the AHRC receives a request under this Act, there may be relevant exemptions to disclosure, including for material obtained in confidence and personal information.

Our Privacy Policy sets out how you can access or seek correction of your personal information, make a complaint about how we have handled your information and how we will deal with your complaint.
