Hello,
To whom it concerns,

I apologise at first if my layout is not academic.

This issue has created some veeey real problems, that used to be very real problems for a very limited number.

In Australia we are lucky to not have the uneducated activist and parents that exists in the USA.

We are also lucky to not have their cultural behaviour or dress codes that sexulise children and teens.

My contact with the issue,

Include, social media, social clubs, bathrooms, the community, politics, and the factors in society that lead to perversions.

I am also an avid observer of human behaviours.

I shall now try to be conscice and short, to the difficult problem you are to attempt to remedy.

I see, the open display and arguements of rhe community, and the self.id laws and conditions as the problem.

In Australia we fought very ey hard to have the birth conditions lossely known as intersex protected and given the laws, medical care and social position that wpuld allow them to flourish.

I argued for it.

What we now have, is the people who would do harm to women and children, and people who have passive deviancies in their sexual arousals, that can simply walk into womens and chidlrens and spaces and at no point can they be challanged.

The wider social activism that is encouraging and teaching children, adult sex acts, and to question their own self identity, is capturing people who are not intersex, nor do they have the biological conditions that are trans gender.

With what ever you outcomes are to be,

The safeguarding of women and children, and intersex people and the treatments for the transgender, should be addressed from.

Children first.

Women next,

Intersex

Trans,

And somehow, our society MUST be able to eject predators and pretenders from any space that they might cause harm or be a risk in.

Thank you.
Benjamin Hayes.
